

Maureen Toomey

Biography

Maureen Toomey currently serves as the Head of Commercial Risk Strategy, Aon North America, where she has responsibility for . Chief Operating Officer for Commercial Risk Broking in the U.S, where she has responsibility for executing Aon's broking strategy across all Aon's Commercial Risk and Heath practices. She leads a coordinated broking organization that drives value to Aon clients and leads the industry with innovation and thought leadership using data & analytics. Prior to serving as COO, Maureen was Aon's Global Leader for Commercial Risk Client Data and Analytics. She led the development and launch of Aon's first client facing data and analytics platform, called Aon Sophi.

Prior to this role, Maureen served as the Chief Operating Officer for Aon's Reinsurance Solutions Broking, where she had responsibility for developing reinsurer analytics, identifying new broking distribution opportunities, as well as coordination with Aon Broking across Aon's other risk businesses. Previously, Maureen has also held the positions of Global Chief Broking Officer for Aon Affinity, and Vice-President of Commercial Risk's Global Broking Excellence team. In these roles, Maureen had responsibility for defining performance measures for brokers, optimizing Aon's global specialties and international placing centers, working with markets on claims, contracts, Aon Inpoint, and strategic business planning. She managed the consolidation of ARS' wholesale book in the U.S., launched a consulting service platform for MGA businesses, and was responsible for the insights and analytics generated from the Aon Global Risk Insight Platform.

Maureen has been with Aon for 19 years. She has an undergraduate degree in Actuarial Sciences from the University of Illinois and her MBA with a Finance specialization from New York University's Stern School of Business. Maureen was recently named one of Insurance Business America's 2020 Elite Women in the insurance industry.