

Shane Hogan, Senior Vice President & Resident Sales Director – Aon

Shane's current position at Aon is the Resident Sales Director and interim Resident Managing Director for Aon's Tennessee office. Shane is a senior resource to clients and to entire Aon teams by ensuring that they work together seamlessly in all areas of client consultation, program design, and insurance placement. Prior to joining the Tennessee office, Shane served as a Senior Account Executive in Aon's New York City office for 8 years. In that role, Shane was responsible for the successful delivery for all of Aon's resources for clients, leading internal service teams, developing risk management objectives, and crafting solutions for unique business and insurance risks. Shane first began working in the insurance industry in 2006 and has since had experience in various roles at large international insurance brokerage companies. In 2019, Shane was honored by Risk & Insurance magazine as a "Power Broker" and was previously a Breakout award winner for "40 under 40" by Business Insurance magazine.
